

Women's March Connecticut

We are a large group of women throughout the State of Connecticut who woke up on November 9th with the realization that something unique had occurred. A call to move from despondency to recovery and resistance, created a need to reach out and join forces that ultimately coalesced in the Women's March on Washington on January 21st.

The current administration was ushered in by a minority of U.S. citizens, on a wave of intolerance and bigotry. We stand united with our sisters and brothers of every race, religion, ethnic, gender and sexual minority to work for a positive world safe and equal for all. We stand together with the most vulnerable, those threatened rhetorically with ignorance and hate, and those threatened legislatively with having their rights reduced or eliminated. We believe in a United States which is fair and equal for all. We will fight against any threat to the rights of others, and we stand together with those in need. We believe that the response to hate is unity and community building and we will organize and work to make that happen. We represent a diverse group of women from throughout the state.

We invite like-minded Connecticut residents to join our efforts on Facebook and Twitter.

Women's March Connecticut Chapter Organizers

- Andrea H. Berman, Milford
- Beth Kerrigan West Hartford
- Cass Martineau , Willimantic
- Evelyn Mantilla, West Hartford
- Jacqueline Kozin, New Haven
- Jillian Gilchrest, West Hartford
- Maria Khan, Bloomfield
- Melissa Kane, Westport
- Melody Oliphant, New Haven
- Pam Elkow, Redding
- Po Murray, Sandy Hook
- Polly Moran, Hartford
- Samantha Parsons, Guilford
- Sarah Raskin, West Hartford
- Samia Hussein, Windsor Locks
- Kaitlyn Shake, Fairfield
- Nija Phelps, Milford